The Osgoode Certificate in Fundamentals of Indigenous Peoples and Canadian Law

Take advantage of this unique opportunity to tap into the deep reservoir of practical, relevant knowledge and extensive experience of both faculty and your peers.

The Osgoode Certificate in Fundamentals of Indigenous Peoples and Canadian Law

was designed and is delivered by an expert faculty drawn from across Canada. This essential program will help you develop a comprehensive knowledge of the fundamental issues relating to Indigenous peoples and the law, while expanding your professional and personal networks.

Created to help you understand this complex and vitally important body of law, this intensive program is a deep dive into the knowledge and practical strategies you need to be able to work more effectively when dealing with these complex and rapidly evolving legal issues.

The aim of the program is to provide you with a practical understanding of Indigenous rights and title, the constitutional and legislative framework, reserve lands and developments on reserve, treaty interpretation, modern treaties and consultation and accommodation. After examining the history and current state of the law, we will reflect on what the future looks like.

Learn and connect with other professionals who work in this area, in an engaging online forum. There will be lots of opportunity for questions, lively debate and networking.

Topics Include:

- The historic narrative and constitutional framework
- Understanding historic treaties – the context, perspectives and contemporary realities
- Understanding (and working effectively with) Indigenous self-governance
- The relationship between the historic treaties and the role of the Crown, the division of powers, treaty rights and the Indian Act
- Modern day treaties using case studies and a Canada-wide comparative analysis
- Métis Rights and Reconciliation
- The duty to consult and accommodate – its origins, recent case law developments and best practices
- Implementation of consultation across Canada, including current and developing practices in resource development, impact benefit agreements, participation agreements, cooperation agreements and revenue sharing agreements
- Reflecting on where are we now and what's next?

What past participants have said:

“Coming into this course with extremely little understanding of the Canadian legal context or the relationship between it and our indigenous population, these sessions provided an excellent overview of key milestones in Canada’s history that have shaped today’s landscape.”

David Barrett
Director Sustainability,
Alamos Gold Inc.

“The best thing about the program was the quality and knowledge of the presenters, and how well the topics relate to the work we do in government every day.”

Janet Leader
Executive Assistant,
Office of the Assistant Deputy Minister,
Provincial Highways Management,
Ministry of Transportation

“The range of topics and breadth of speakers was very impressive. Furthermore the contacts I made via networking with students and faculty were invaluable.”

Megan E. Peck
Senior Counsel,
Assessment Review Board
