

OSGOODE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT'S

ITAW | INTENSIVE TRIAL ADVOCACY WORKSHOP

In-Person OR Online (Live)

More than 4,500 litigators have benefited from this one-of-a-kind learning experience

Now available in-person or live online, our program offers you the choice between two equally effective formats that both include all of the same elements that have made ITAW an unsurpassed learning experience for more than 40 years:

- Hands-on opportunity to develop and practice essential trial skills with individualized feedback
- Equally applicable to civil and criminal cases
- Faculty of 100+ members of the Bench and Bar

“This is by far the best course I have taken since being in practice. The format is incredibly effective. This course has changed the way I plan to practise litigation.”

Kate Genest, Miller Thomson LLP

“The Osgoode Intensive Trial Advocacy Workshop, as promised, is the premier and definitive trial advocacy program. The high quality of instruction and intensive level of practice and skills development, culminating in a final trial, left me feeling very confident and well-equipped for future courtroom advocacy.”

Aaron Christoff, Gowling WLG

44th Annual Intensive Trial Advocacy Workshop

Every year, ITAW brings together an exceptional group of over 100 instructors and guest speakers, all who are active members of the Bench and Bar and are trained in teaching oral advocacy.

With the tremendous success of the live, online version of ITAW, our program is now offered in two formats to suit your needs and preferences: in-person or live online.

Regardless of your chosen format, you will be joined by respected instructors and receive the benefits of our time tested teaching model, complemented by valuable resources in our online learning platform.

Whether you choose to engage in face-to-face learning and networking through our in-person format, or develop your virtual advocacy skills while taking advantage of the convenience offered by an online format, both formats provide additional benefits including:

- Receiving an electronic portfolio of the recordings of your individualized critiques
- Viewing pre recorded demonstrations at your own time, from any space
- Accessing materials and resources our online learning platform for 120 days

Financial Assistance

Sheila Block &
Professor James
Seckinger Fellowship

This fellowship recognizes the outstanding contributions made by Sheila Block and Prof. Seckinger to advocacy across Canada and around the world, and in particular to the ITAW program at Osgoode since its inception 44 years ago. Preference will be given to lawyers from non-profit organizations, and those in remote parts of Canada.

Judge David Stokes
Memorial Fellowship

In honour of Judge Stokes, a long-time and highly esteemed instructor in the ITAW, this fellowship will be awarded to a criminal defense lawyer with demonstrated financial need and requiring advocacy training.

To apply (for either fellowship): Send a CV, a persuasive cover letter and a copy of your previous year's tax return to:

The Curriculum

The ITAW focuses on learning through live interactive participation in simulated trial sessions, coupled with individual and small-group critique by experienced trial counsel and judges. Recorded and annotated demonstrations, which may be viewed on your own time, are provided to guide your individual participation and performance.

Individual Feedback and Coaching

Throughout the program, each participant receives individual attention in a small group environment. Groups of eight participants work closely with two (or more) instructors at a time. Participants receive personalized feedback and coaching from their instructors. Individual critiques and performances are also recorded, providing the participants with the opportunity to self-assess and get further with individualized feedback.

The Final Trial

The program culminates with a full day trial experience, and are presided over by judges and experienced practitioners. The trials provide an important opportunity to reinforce the learning and skills from the workshops. At the conclusion of the trial, participants receive individual feedback on their trial performance by the presiding judge. Final Trials take place in the same format that you selected for the week.

Teaching Model

The program, including format, materials and teaching methods, is the product of a significant co-operative venture between academic instructors and practising members of the Bench and Bar. The teaching materials are based on those developed by the National Institute for Trial Advocacy, adapted to Canadian court practices and procedures, and refined each year. Our online faculty have been trained on online teaching by foremost e-learning experts.

Who Should Attend

The ITAW is ideally suited to lawyers with at least two to five years of legal experience but with limited trial experience. The basic trial skills learned at ITAW are equally applicable to civil and criminal cases.

Participants should note that ITAW is an intensive program. Evening and pre-program preparation will be required.

Attendance and participation on all days is required. A detailed agenda will be provided in advance.
